COURT OF ENQUIRY SUMMONS ROOSEVELT

The Governor to Testify Some Time This Week.

Officers Describe Their Experience With Army Beel.

Major Jense Lee Sangests Questions to Recorder Davis at Today's Session.

The Berl Court of Enquiry met this morning and called as the first witness Lieut. Thos. M. Dwyer, Ninth Infantry. He was with his regiment at Tampa and in Cuba. He did not know what was the ment component of the travel ration on the transport. He knew that canned roast heef was used on the voyage. In Cuba the men complained of the beef. They claimed that it was nauseating. He had eaten it on three or four occasions. To him it was unpalatable and he are it only when he could not cook his bacon. Retrigerated beef began to arrive soon after the surrender of Santiage. He had heard no suggestion then that this meat had been chemically treated. To him, it appeared to be the same kind of meat which was issued to his company before the war and which was being issued now.

In reply to quistiens from Colonel Gillespie he said that he was taken sick after eating the cause. Major Jesse Lee, of the Ninth admirty sat at the left leant of Colonel Davis sturing the examiwas with his regiment at Tampa and in

The next witness was First Sergeant tharsand Alexander, Ninth Infantry. He testified that he served with this regiment in Cuba. The meat part of the travel ration constanted of camed corned and cannot super feef. There was a great deal of complaint against the cannot ross beef. All the mon complained of it, and it made All the men complained of it, and it made many of them suck at their stomachs. It was not fit to cat. There was not much nutriment in it. He had not tasted anything like it before. It was not scanoned and though it was not spailed yet it did not taste frezh. He did not complain, because he thought it would be no use. It was freen tasting beef. They ate it because they had very little else to eat. Before Santiago many of the men threw their canned roast beef away. He did not use his. The men attributed their sickness to the beef. Two-thirds of the men were sick. He could not describe the taste. He thought All the men complained of it, and it made He could not describe the taste. No instructions were given a to how it should be prepared. He said the meat as a rule was sweet, but now and then a can would be spoiled. All the meat was stringy and slush. There was no taste to it. He considered it unwholecome. All the men in his company had the same opinion of it.

Of the refrigerated beef, the witness said put when his company was encamped in hills much of the ment had to be burbetter.

General Sherman was the Commandia (General Sherman General Sherman General (General Sherman General Lyca) heef in use at picking and that it would be good tore for men to travel with it were intended for use only when the man had no facilities for cooking. Many reports were received at the degardment showing the general satisfaction of the men with this innovation. Cheese was dropped from the rathin because it did not passess keeping qualities in het climates of same weather. During the sixil was fresh beef was iscard to the treeps from eattle on the hoof, driven along either by the army or by the contraster. After the war the system of supplying posts with shaughtered beef by contracts was adopted, though in isolated posts the commands were furnished with beef on the hoof. Sergeant Hatcher of the Ninth infantry, was the next witness. He was in Cuba.
He testified that all the men objected to tionally in the first half hour, canned roast beef and tried to draw bacon and did so whenever possible. No formal complaint was made, because it was of no use. It was the best that could be dehe. When there was bacon the men ate it, and when there was not, the min had to overcome their dislike for the canned roast beef or go hungry. "It looked bad when you opened the can, it didn't tante good when you are it, and did not do you any good after you got it down," said.

The refrigerated beef was good when it was not had. "Some of it was pretty good," said the witness. About one-fourth of the meat had to be burled. No man, so far as he knew, was made sick by eating this refrigerated beef. There was nothing peculiar in its taste. At first the men tried to warm up the roast beef, but toward the end they gave it up and threw it away. At 2 o'clock the Court took a recess for lunch.

The Army Appropriation Bill Passes the House.

Mr. Sulzer's Vain Effort to Continue the Debate.

Members Make Numerous Points of Order, But Are Overraled by the Chair.

The Army appropriation bill was passed in the House this afternoon, after about two hours' debate in Committee of the Whole. Mr. Hull, in charge of the bill, pushed it along with all his power, frequently making points of order against amendments and against attempts to discusa topics not germane to the bill.

Representative Sulzer of New York introduced an amendment to the bill providing for the appointment of a volunteer major general to that rank in the regular major general to that rank in the regular army. The amendment was designed for the benefit of General Wheeler.

Mr. Huil raised a point of order against the amendment and the Chair sustained him, declining to hear argument on the point. Mr. Sulzer then moved to strike cut the lest word of the section under debate. the last word of the section under debate, and proceeded to argue that his former amendment was similar to that by which Admiral Dewey's promotion was secured in the Naval bill. Mr. Hull raised the point of order

Mr. Hull raised the point of order against Mr. Sulzer, contending that the latter was not confining himself to the subject under debate.

Chairman Hopkins sustained the point. Mr. Sulzer attempted to continue the debate, and Mr. Hopkins finally had to theraten him with the Sergeant at Arms before he would close. Then in revenge, Mr. Sulzer raised a point of order against the entire section under debate, claiming that about haif of the entire bill was not in pursuance of existing law—no army bill having yet been passed—and was subin pursuance of existing law-no army bill having yet been passed—and was sub-ject to points of order.

Hopkins overruled Mr. Sulzer's oint and the reading of the bill contin-

Fitzgerald of Massachusetts introduced his amendment, spoken of Saturday, giv-ing, on muster out, to regulars who had enlisted for the war, one month's extra enlisted for the war, one month's extra pay if serving inside the country and two months' extra pay if serving outside the country. This puts volunteers in the reg-ultre on the same plane as those in the volunteer regiments, who have been aleady provided for.

The amendment was adopted and the committee then rose and reported the bill sent to him at Albany a few days ago, and probably reached its destination on the day Governor Roosevelt left for Washington. An answer is expected iomorrow and it is thought that Governor Roosevelt will testify this week.

The next witness was Sergeant Buckage, of the Ninth infantry. He was at Tampa. No complaints were made of the beef. On the voyage the ratious comprised caned corned beef and canned roast beef. A great many complaints were made against the roast beef. The men did not like it. It was dry and stringy and the insured of Sanitago there was no regularity in the issue of rations. The men could not keep it on their sory, but as the Government had failed men complained loudly against the roast beef. The men found it disasome fear of slightly harder rates in ca money but perhaps this will prove to h unfounded. One very conspicuous featur of the situation is that different stock are taken up at different times so that one chooses rightly it is quite possible t make profits against the general trend of the market. This is a very different situa-tion from that in the big beam of the ation from that in the big boom of D cember and January when the entire li practically moved together.

The Steel and Wire issues were the strongest on the list this morning. The common stock opened at 621-2, two points above Saturday's close, and although there was some recession at first this price was soon regained and passed. The gossip of this stock is all bullish, and it is now even predicted that a dividend will be paid on the common this spring. The Federal Steel issues were also strong for much the same reason. The talk of the likelihood that the be without foundation.

Sugar was another of the industrials to show much strength this morning. It had soon reached 142 and the shorts exhibited much uneasiness. Tobacco showed no new features, but was strong during the morn-

The short time remaining in which the absidy bill can be acted on attracts general attention to Pacific Mail. It cannot be doubted that the passage of the bill would send the price of the stock up many points as the benefit to the company would be anywhere from 3 to 5 or 6 per cent on the stock. On the other hand as has been stock. On the other hand as has been pointed out before the friends of the company would not sell the stock if the measure should fail as the comany is carning without the subsidy 6 per cent or more and paying 3 per cent dividends. The best information now obtainable is that the bill cannot be pushed through the Senate during the remaining six days of the session.

Atchison is very strong and refuses to yield more than fractionally. The prefer-red stock is now 5 points above the low of two weeks ago. The earnings of the company are almost as fine as those of St. Paul and the buying of the stock has been of the best character.

Burlington, St. Paul and Rock Island after opening very weak all had some advance in the morning trading. It was hinted that a large pool in the first stock will begin operations heavily on the long side at the first favorable opportunity. As for St. Paul the earnings of the road as the heat of all the railroads, better, even the best of all the railroads, better even than Burlington's and it seems certain that the stock will see much higher prices.
